Story

Max

Max was absolutely brilliant at drawing dogs. His dogs were big and smily and green. Well, green with orange spots. And sometimes they weren’t so smily. Sometimes they looked a bit sad and sometimes they looked a bit cross and sometimes they looked a bit bored. Sometimes, Max’s dogs were small and kind of skinny and sometimes they were huge and kind of floppy.

But whenever Max drew a dog, you always wanted to have a look. You see, Max’s dogs were always, well, interesting.

So when the teacher said there was going to be an art competition for every class in the school – an animal art competition – well, everyone thought that Max would win, no problem.

Max did his best dog picture ever for the competition. He spent ages drawing that dog. He stretched out of his wheelchair to get the ears just right. He whizzed over to Olla to see if her orange was better than his for the spots. He even drew a special sky with a special sun and a special bird flying overhead.

I had a look at that dog and I’ve got to say, it was the best dog I’d ever seen.

Ever.

By miles.
And Jane won. Yes, you heard me right, Jane won.

Jane had drawn a lion. A very good lion. A very scary-looking lion.

Max looked really disappointed. Really, really disappointed.

Until break-time, that is. Then he scooted out into the yard and started playing a clapping game with Ella

‘You should have won’, I said, as soon as I went up to them.

‘Ah, Jane’s lion is kinda cool’ he replied.

‘But...but’ I argued. ‘Your dog is fantastic. It’s the best dog you’ve ever drawn’.

‘I know,’ Max said. ‘It is the best dog I’ve ever drawn.’ And then he smiled. A really big smile. A really big kind of doggy smile.

Questions

★ What kind of dogs did Max draw?
★ Whom did he borrow the orange off?
★ What animal did Jane draw?

★ Did Max win the competition?
★ How did Max feel at first?
★ Why did he smile when he said his dog was the best dog he’d ever drawn?
★ How do you think Jane felt when she heard she had won?
★ Do you think Jane had done her very best?
★ Do you think Max was right to be happy, even though he had lost?

Discussion

★ Have you ever tried hard to do something but couldn't do it in the end?
★ Do you know the name of that feeling? (disappointment or frustration)
★ What colour do you think ‘disappointed’ is?
★ If you could feel ‘disappointment’, how do you think it would feel? (e.g. like sand in your shoe, slippery or slimey etc.)

Activity

Children make clay or plasticine representation of disappointment.

Real Play Being Change Makers

Teacher Activity

Teacher writes ‘Making our school a better place’ on board.

Teacher (speaking)

Today, I’d like us all to think about ways of making our school a better place. (Suggest ideas with clear disadvantages.)

- Leaving lights on all time so it’s nice and bright in the classrooms. Do you think that would make the school a better place?
- Moving bins to middle of yard, so everyone will know where they are. Do you think that would make the school a better place?

First / Second Class
Using all the money the school has to buy extra paints and paper for art. Do you think that would make the school a better place?

Before we think of our own ideas, let’s think about all the areas where we could make a change: school building; yard; hall etc.

Each heading is written up on board.

Class Activity

Suggestions are written under each heading. Suggestions are discussed:

✔ Will this make our school a better place?

Children vote on suggestion they would like to try out

Suggestions should be simple and sustainable e.g. moving plant pots in yard; storing equipment in alternative area; cleaning area; having notice-board where ‘News’ from classes could be displayed etc.

Class Discussion

This is now our Class Project.

✔ Do we need to talk to anyone about this idea?
   (Children should be encouraged to think of the principal.)
✔ What should we do about this?
   (Make appointment for principal to come to class to discuss initiative)
✔ What questions do you think she / he will ask?

Examples of possible questions

✔ Can we do this ourselves or will the principal arrange for this to be done?
✔ Will this cost money?
✔ How long will we try this out for?
✔ How will we know if it has made the school a better place?
  (survey other pupils / teachers etc.)

Class Activity

Children write down name of project and questions principal might ask in their project diary.

Small group of children go to principal’s office to arrange appointment.
